

Matt Bright
Director of External Affairs
Carbon Capture Inc
Washington, D.C.

Biography: Matt Bright is the Director of External Affairs for CarbonCapture Inc., a direct air capture (DAC) technology and project development company. There he forms and nurtures stakeholder relationships in the public and private sector to support DAC and the company. In prior positions at Clean Air Task Force, the Global CCS Institute, and Third Way, Matt crafted and advocated for public policy to promote the use of carbon capture, removal, and storage technologies. Matt also worked on Capitol Hill where he was instrumental in writing a section of the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law of 2021 to incentivize interstate carbon dioxide transport infrastructure. In a previous life, Matt was a soil scientist.

Workshop: Lose the Blues with CO₂ - Carbon dioxide (CO₂) is essential for life on Earth, but too much of it is also bad for both our climate and oceans. CarbonCapture has ways of testing and capturing excess CO₂ from the atmosphere and storing it safely. In today's activity, we'll look at how you can do a CO₂ test at home!
